Franchise Finance Case Study

Background

Emma Saunders was looking to purchase the EweMove franchise for Newbury, having previously been in full time employment, so the challenge of becoming self-employed was daunting, but exciting. She had already made arrangements with a bank for an interview for obtaining the finance, so speed of delivery and accuracy were her main concerns.

The Outcome

Through frequent contact the business plan was completed on time and to her complete satisfaction, which made the interview with the bank far less stressful than she had thought it may be, thus leading to a satisfactory conclusion, the bank agreeing to provide the level of facilities as set out in the plan.

Here's what Emma had to say:

“My experience with Franchise Finance has been nothing but positive. As a new business owner I needed a great deal of help with my business planning and understanding the requirements of lenders in order to secure some funding. The team were extremely knowledgeable, helpful and prompt in responding throughout the process. They were always available to talk things through with me and offer great advice and support. Once we had secured the funding the consultant called me to see how the business was going - not something you would necessarily expect once the deal is done but shows the calibre Franchise Finance as a company. I would not hesitate to recommend them to anyone looking for a professional company to assist in sourcing funding and producing a detailed business plan.”
